

AMENDED IN ASSEMBLY APRIL 25, 2011

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE—2011–12 REGULAR SESSION

ASSEMBLY BILL

No. 571

Introduced by Assembly Member Hagman
(Coauthors: Assembly Members Garrick and Mansoor)

February 16, 2011

An act to amend Sections 500, 506, and 509 of, to repeal Sections 502 and 507 of, and to repeal and add Section 503 of, the Corporations Code, relating to corporations.

LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL'S DIGEST

AB 571, as amended, Hagman. Corporations: distributions.

Existing law provides for the formation and governance of corporations. Existing law allows a corporation to make a distribution of cash or property to shareholders, including a dividend or a repurchase or redemption of shares, only if either the corporation has retained earnings prior to the distribution equal to or exceeding the amount of the distribution or the corporation can satisfy specified balance sheet test and liquidity requirements after giving effect to the distribution, and the distribution will not render the corporation insolvent.

This bill would allow a corporation to distribute cash or property to shareholders, including a dividend or repurchase or redemption of shares, if the amount of the corporation's retained earnings prior to the distribution equals or exceeds the sum of the distribution and the cumulative dividends in arrears on certain preferred stock and, after giving effect to the distribution, the value of the corporation's assets equals or exceeds the sum of its liabilities and the liquidation preference of any preferred stock, except as specified. The bill would provide that a board of directors may base a determination that the value of its assets exceeds the amount of liabilities on financial statements prepared on the basis of accounting practices and principles that are reasonable in the circumstances, a fair valuation, or any other method that is reasonable under the circumstances.

Existing law provides that a shareholder who knowingly receives an improper distribution is liable to the corporation's creditors and holders of preferred shares, as specified, and that those parties may bring suit in the name of the corporation to enforce those liabilities.

This bill would provide that holders of shares having preferential rights with respect to cumulative dividends in arrears shall not have the right to bring suit with respect to an improper distribution unless the amounts owed those holders, as specified, is greater than zero. The bill would also provide that a cause of action with respect to an obligation to return an improper distribution shall be extinguished unless brought within 4 years of the distribution date.

Existing law requires a corporation to provide notice, as specified, to shareholders, with respect to a dividend other than one chargeable to retained earnings, stating that the dividend is being made from a source other than retained earnings, and stating the accounting treatment of the dividend.

This bill would eliminate that requirement.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

- 1 SECTION 1. Section 500 of the Corporations Code is amended
- 2 to read:
- 3 500. (a) Neither a corporation nor any of its subsidiaries shall
- 4 make any distribution to the corporation's shareholders (Section
- 5 166) unless the board of directors has determined in good faith
- 6 either of the following:
- 7 (1) The amount of retained earnings of the corporation
- 8 immediately prior to the distribution equals or exceeds the sum of
- 9 (A) the amount of the proposed distribution plus (B) the preferential
- 10 dividends arrears amount.
- 11 (2) Immediately after the distribution, the value of the
- 12 corporation's assets would equal or exceed the sum of its total
- 13 liabilities plus the preferential rights amount.

(b) For the purpose of applying paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) to a distribution by a corporation, “preferential dividends arrears amount” means the amount, if any, of cumulative dividends in arrears on all shares having a preference with respect to payment of dividends over the class or series to which the applicable distribution is being made, provided that if the articles of incorporation provide that a distribution can be made without regard to preferential dividends arrears amount, then the preferential dividends arrears amount shall be zero. For the purpose of applying paragraph (2) of subdivision (a) to a distribution by a corporation, “preferential rights amount” means the amount that would be needed if the corporation were to be dissolved at the time of the distribution to satisfy the preferential rights, including accrued but unpaid dividends, of other shareholders upon dissolution that are superior to the rights of the shareholders receiving the distribution, provided that if the articles of incorporation provide that a distribution can be made without regard to any preferential rights, then the preferential rights amount shall be zero. In the case of a distribution of cash or property in payment by the corporation in connection with the purchase of its shares, (1) there shall be added to retained earnings all amounts that had been previously deducted therefrom with respect to obligations incurred in connection with the corporation’s repurchase of its shares and reflected on the corporation’s balance sheet, but not in excess of the principal of the obligations that remain unpaid immediately prior to the distribution and (2) there shall be deducted from liabilities all amounts that had been previously added thereto with respect to the obligations incurred in connection with the corporation’s repurchase of its shares and reflected on the corporation’s balance sheet, but not in excess of the principal of the obligations that will remain unpaid after the distribution, provided that no addition to retained earnings or deduction from liabilities under this subdivision shall occur on account of any obligation that is a distribution to the corporation’s shareholders (Section 166) at the time the obligation is incurred.

(c) The board of directors may base a determination that a distribution is not prohibited under subdivision (a) or under Section 501 on any of the following:

1 (1) Financial statements prepared on the basis of accounting 2 practices and principles that are reasonable under the 3 circumstances.

4 (2) A fair valuation.

5 (3) Any other method that is reasonable under the circumstances.

6 (d) The effect of a distribution under paragraphs (1) or (2) of 7 subdivision (a) is measured as of the date the distribution is 8 authorized if the payment occurs within 120 days after the date of 9 authorization.

10 (e) (1) If terms of indebtedness provide that payment of principal 11 and interest is to be made only if, and to the extent that, payment 12 of a distribution to shareholders could then be made under this 13 section, indebtedness of a corporation, including indebtedness 14 issued as a distribution, is not a liability for purposes of 15 determinations made under paragraph (2) of subdivision (a).

16 (2) If indebtedness is issued as a distribution, each payment of 17 principal or interest on the indebtedness shall be treated as a 18 distribution, the effect of which is measured on the date the 19 payment of the indebtedness is actually made.

20 (f) This section does not apply to a corporation licensed as a 21 broker-dealer under Chapter 2 (commencing with Section 25210)
22 of Part 3 of Division 1 of Title 4, if immediately after giving effect 23 to any distribution the corporation is in compliance with the net 24 capital rules of the Commissioner of Corporations and the 25 Securities and Exchange Commission.

26 SEC. 2. Section 502 of the Corporations Code is repealed.

27 SEC. 3. Section 503 of the Corporations Code is repealed.

28 SEC. 4. Section 503 is added to the Corporations Code, to read:

29 503. (a) The provisions of Sections 500 and 501 shall not apply
30 to a purchase or redemption of shares of a deceased shareholder 31 from the proceeds of insurance on the life of that shareholder in 32 excess of the total amount of all premiums paid by the corporation 33 for that insurance, in order to carry out the provisions of an 34 agreement between the corporation and that shareholder to purchase 35 or redeem those shares upon the death of the shareholder.

36 (b) The provisions of Sections 500 and 501 shall not apply to 37 the purchase or redemption of shares of a disabled shareholder
38 from the proceeds of disability insurance applicable to the disabled 39 shareholder in excess of the total amount of all premiums paid by 40 the corporation for the insurance, in order to carry out the 1 provisions of an agreement between the corporation and the 2 shareholder to purchase or redeem shares upon the disability of 3 the shareholder as defined within that policy. For the purposes of 4 this subdivision, “disability insurance” means an agreement of 5 indemnification against the insured’s loss of the ability to work 6 due to accident or illness.

7 SEC. 5. Section 506 of the Corporations Code is amended to 8 read:

9 506. (a) Any shareholder who receives any distribution 10 prohibited by this chapter with knowledge of facts indicating the 11 impropriety thereof is liable to the corporation for the benefit of 12 all of the creditors or shareholders entitled to institute an action 13 under subdivision (b) for the amount so received by the shareholder 14 with interest thereon at the legal rate on judgments until paid, but 15 not exceeding the liabilities of the corporation owed to 16 nonconsenting creditors at the time of the violation and the injury 17 suffered by nonconsenting shareholders, as the case may be. For 18 purposes of determining the value of any noncash property received 19 in a distribution described in the preceding sentence, the 20 shareholder receiving that illegal distribution shall be liable to the 21 corporation for an amount equal to the fair market value of the 22 property at the time of the illegal distribution plus interest thereon 23 from the date of the distribution at the legal rate on judgments until 24 paid, together with all reasonably incurred costs of appraisal or 25 other valuation, if any, of that property, but not exceeding the 26 liabilities of the corporation owed to nonconsenting creditors at 27 the time of the violation and the injury suffered by nonconsenting 28 shareholders, as the case may be.

29 (b) Suit may be brought in the name of the corporation to enforce 30 the liability (1) to creditors arising under subdivision (a) for a 31 violation of Section 500 or 501 against any or all shareholders 32 liable by any one or more creditors of the corporation whose debts 33 or claims arose prior to the time of the distribution to shareholders 34 and who have not consented thereto, whether or not they have 35 reduced their claims to judgment, or (2) to shareholders arising 36 under subdivision (a) for a violation of Section 500 against any or 37 all shareholders liable by one or more holders of shares having 38 preferential rights with respect to cumulative dividends in arrears, 39 in the case of a violation of paragraph (1) of subdivision (a) of 40 Section 500, or upon dissolution, in the case of a violation of

1 paragraph (2) of subdivision (a) of Section 500, in each case who 2 have not consented to the applicable distribution, without regard 3 to the provisions in Section 800, and in each case to the extent the 4 applicable shares with preferential rights were outstanding at the 5 time of the distribution; provided that holders of shares of 6 preferential rights shall not have the right to bring suit in the name 7 of the corporation under this subdivision unless the preferential 8 dividends arrear amount, in the case of a violation of paragraph 9 (1) of subdivision (a) of Section 500, or the preferential rights 10 amount, in the case of a violation of paragraph (2) of subdivision 11 (a) of Section 500, was greater than zero, ~~in each case of those~~ 12 ~~who have not consented to the applicable distribution, without~~ 13 ~~regard to the provisions of Section 800. A zero.~~ A cause of action 14 with respect to an obligation to return a distribution pursuant to 15 this section shall be extinguished unless the action is brought within 16 four years after the date the distribution is made.

17 (c) Any shareholder sued under this section may implead all 18 other shareholders liable under this section and may compel 19 contribution, either in that action or in an independent action 20 against shareholders not joined in that action.

21 (d) Nothing contained in this section affects any liability which 22 any shareholder may have under Chapter 1 (commencing with 23 Section 3439) of Title 2 of Part 2 of Division 4 of the Civil Code.

24 SEC. 6. Section 507 of the Corporations Code is repealed.

25 SEC. 7. Section 509 of the Corporations Code is amended to 26 read:

27 509. (a) A corporation may redeem any or all shares which 28 are redeemable at its option by (1) giving notice of redemption as 29 provided in subdivisions (b) and (c) or as otherwise provided in 30 its articles of incorporation, and (2) payment or deposit of the 31 redemption price of the shares as provided in its articles or deposit 32 of the redemption price pursuant to subdivision (d).

33 (b) Subject to any provisions in the articles with respect to the 34 notice required for redemption of shares, the corporation may give 35 notice of the redemption of any or all shares subject to redemption 36 by causing a notice of redemption to be published in a newspaper 37 of general circulation in the county in which the principal executive 38 office of the corporation is located at least once a week for two 39 successive weeks, in each instance on any day of the week, 40 commencing not earlier than 60 nor later than 20 days before the

1 date fixed for redemption. The notice of redemption shall set forth 2 all of the following:

3 (1) The class or series of shares or part of any class or series of 4 shares to be redeemed.

5 (2) The date fixed for redemption.

6 (3) The redemption price.

7 (4) If the shares are certificated securities, the place at which 8 the shareholders may obtain payment of the redemption price upon 9 surrender of their share certificates.

10 (c) If the corporation gives notice of redemption pursuant to 11 subdivision (b), it shall also mail a copy of the notice of redemption 12 to each holder of record of shares to be redeemed as of the date of 13 mailing or record date fixed in accordance with Section 701, 14 addressed to the holder at the address of such holder appearing on 15 the books of the corporation or given by the holder to the 16 corporation for the purpose of notice, or if no such address appears 17 or is given at the place where the principal executive office of the 18 corporation is located, not earlier than 60 nor later than 20 days 19 before the date fixed for redemption. Failure to comply with this 20 subdivision does not invalidate the redemption of the shares.

21 (d) If, on or prior to any date fixed for redemption of redeemable 22 shares, the corporation deposits with any bank or trust company 23 in this state as a trust fund, (1) a sum sufficient to redeem, on the 24 date fixed for redemption thereof, the shares called for redemption, 25 (2) in the case of the redemption of any uncertificated securities, 26 an officer's certificate setting forth the holders thereof registered 27 on the books of the corporation and the number of shares held by 28 each, and (3) irrevocable instructions and authority to the bank or 29 trust company to publish the notice of redemption thereof (or to 30 complete publication if theretofore commenced) and to pay, on 31 and after the date fixed for redemption or prior thereto, the 32 redemption price of the shares to their respective holders upon the 33 surrender of their share certificates, in the case of certificated 34 securities, or the delivery of the officer's certificate in the case of 35 uncertificated securities, then from and after the date of the deposit 36 (although prior to the date fixed for redemption) the shares called 37 shall be redeemed and the dividends on those shares shall cease 38 to accrue after the date fixed for redemption. The deposit shall 39 constitute full payment of the shares to their holders and from and 40 after the date of the deposit the shares shall no longer be

1 outstanding and the holders thereof shall cease to be shareholders
2 with respect to the shares and shall have no rights with respect 3 thereto except the right to receive from the bank or trust company 4 payment of the redemption price of the shares without interest, 5 upon surrender of their certificates therefor, in the case of 6 certificated securities, and any right to convert the shares which 7 may exist and then continue for any period fixed by its terms.
8 In determining the holders of uncertificated securities, the bank 9 or trust company shall be entitled to rely on any officer's certificate 10 deposited with it in accordance with this subdivision.
